WHAM!

Battersea, London.

During the end of Year 10 of my GCSEs, I spent time at WHAM, a branding agency based within Battersea, London. I garnered something of an understanding of the professional workplace environment, compiled information into presentations, and sat in on live meetings for their then-current advertisement projects.

I helped look after the University of Brighton BA Graphic Design 3rd year degree show, One Fifty where my work was also displayed. Running the shop, directing guests, keeping the exhibition space safe and tidy.
