Words are central to the murals, textile works and publications of Annabelle Binnerts, both as a subject and a material. She understands them as shapeshifters that can be bent, formed and shaped, much like a sculptor works her clay. Her work envelops reader-viewers within language, and beckons them to step through a door, into an elsewhere hidden behind written words, where the boundaries that separate the world into distinct entities become porous and open to interpretation.

She is represented by Galerie Martin van Zomeren, Amsterdam
