

Be aware that explosives, compressed gasses, flammable liquids, matches & lighters, oxidisers or organic peroxides, toxic or infectious substances, security type cash boxes, liquid oxygen devices, hoverboards, electroshock & disabling devices, radioactive material, corrosives, magnetized material, firearms & replicas are NOT PERMITTED in all baggage. Ice skaters, baseball bats, ammunition, meat cleavers, knives, scissors, blades, nail accessories and army knives are NOT PERMITTED in cabin baggage. Loose or spare batteries of all kinds including articles which have the primary purpose as a power source, e.g. power banks, are NOT PERMITTED in checked baggage.

The formal description of an object is always problematic for non-experts. When words are insufficient it's possible to communicate graphically. But most people cannot draw. However, if you happen to lose your baggage at the airport, don't worry about having to describe exactly its shape: airlines have prepared a drawn inventory of travel container shapes, divided by types and models – from the hatbox to the beauty case, from the executive to the loose bag – which makes up for the inability of average users to graphically describe their own baggage. It is obvious that if your suitcase is not in the chart, and you do not know how to draw it, you will never find it.

Please understand that airlines do not cover any of the following for loss or damage: antiques, heirlooms, art objects, sculptures, binoculars, telescopes, optical devices including eye glasses, business contracts, documents, cameras, video equipment, camcorders, audio equipment, camera equipment, photographs, cash, currency, computers and related equipment, game trophies, antlers, furs, historical artifacts, irreplaceable books, publications, collectables, jewelry, watches, keys, medication, negotiable papers, original manuscripts, personal electronic devices such as compact disks and video game equipment, precious metals, sales samples, securities and silverwares.
