Disagree. I think we should pay the companies for our jobs. We shouldn't be getting hand outs and the ones that work for free will soon be replaced by loyal, generous people who will pay to work. In order for one to be successful, working for free is simply not enough. One needs to help the company grow through weekly payments. Unpaid workers will soon become obsolete because paying workers are the future. We as a society need to wake up and put in the work AND payment to the companies that so graciously have jobs available during such unprecedented times.

THE 40% RULE THAT ALL CEO'S USE

@entrapranure

If you are spending more than 40% of your time in the bathroom, you need to re-think your priorities and diet. Consider hiring someone to delegate this activity to.

britneyspears I'm writing a book 📖 about a girl who was murdered 👁️ 👁️ ... yet her ghost 👻 gets stuck in limbo because of trauma and pain and she doesn't know how to cross over to the world she use to know 🌍 !!!! After being stuck in limbo for three years, she is a ghost who thrives off of her reflection in her mirror 🪞 for existence!!!! She has no one she can trust but something happens and she figures out how to cross over to the world where her family is !!!! Coming out of the limbo she has a decision to make ... greet the same people who murdered her or create a whole new life !!!! She no longer needs her mirror ... she found a portal by citing certain prayers constantly that give her the insight and gift to not be scared anymore and come out of limbo ... but what I will leave to the IMAGINATION 🧠 is what she does when she crosses over besides learning to write her name again 😊 ✍️ !!!!

Dear "Neighbor"
 You just moved into this neighborhood a year ago, and I wanted to give you time to correct this problem on your own, but you are apparently too inconsiderate to do so. Every day this week, when weather has been nice and windows are open, you proceed to let your small child run free in your backyard and laugh and giggle and carry on without end. This is very disruptive for my two dogs and my bird who sits next to the window and like to look into your yard. Perhaps you could ask him to tone it down a bit, or at least limit his outside time to 15 – 20 mins a day so my dogs can be outside without seeing him running around. If this kind of behavior persists, I WILL CALL THE POLICE!

SENSE OF BEAUTY

-many people have witnessed bears in the wild partaking in unusual behavior such as sitting still for long periods of time in one spot doing apparently nothing but staring at scenic vistas such as sunsets, lakes and mountains. There is very little explanation as to what use or purpose is in this behavior except in theorizing that the bears merely find such views to be aesthetic and "beautiful".
