Can I just say that I will be reordering them in every color. Here is me rolling and sliding down a mountain because I was too scared to get up. My leggings did not rip not even a little bit and I got stuck on rocks and trees.

I'd like to send my condolences to the families of those who were killed at AstroWorld last week. The loss of life at a concert is unbelievably sad and discouraging as an entertainer. It's taken me a few days to process and understand what all has happened. To show support, my business/management teams, my band and crew, and I are all donating our entire fees and any profit to the families of the victims from the event. Profiting from this event feels completely off and I'd like to encourage other performers to consider helping in some way as well.

a snake walks into a hardware store. he says to the man behind the counter, "you got a saw for that ass?" The man behind the counter begins to cry. The snake asks the man, "what are you, a faggot? are you really crying right now?" the man behind the counter begins to cry harder. "I used to be bullied, in highschool, as well as middle school, for having a weird ass, and you bringing it up like this, out of nowhere is honestly kind of traumatizing," he says to the snake. The snake thinks deeply about what he has done, how he has hurt a fellow creature. "Do you please have a saw," he asks the man again, but politely and nice this time. "Yes," the man replies and points to the dusty corner where different size saws hang on the wall. The snake thanks the man and walks over to the saws. The snake touches the various saw blades until he finds the sharpest one. He begins coiling himself around it, squeezing harder and harder til his body begins bursting with blood. "LMAO" the snake screams, as he breathes his final breath. The man behind the counter cries as he sweeps the late snake into his dustpan. "Today has been a freaking garbage day," he says to himself. "Yes, it has," the dead snake replies.

Just got my cock rated 6/10 I know this is statistically above the mean but still can't help but feel that due to the phenomena known as rating inflation that 7/10 is closer to what people perceive as the average. I guess it depends whether you see the average as the middle value of a set or which value is seen most frequently within the set. If it is the latter then this is actually a criticism against qualitative modes of measurement, like ordinal data to which values are not derived relative to a true zero but instead amongst themselves, therefore making them arbitrary.
