Roman DiStefano

American Museum of Natural History / Exhibition Designer

April 2025–Present · New York, NY

Contribute to the design and development of large-scale temporary exhibitions and short-term design interventions. Create engaging visitor experiences that spark dialogue around climate change and culture, integrating storytelling and spatial design to connect audiences with pressing global issues.

iFactory / Interaction Designer

February 2022 – April 2025 · Remote

Develop comprehensive web design systems for higher education clients, guiding the process from art direction to a complete suite of custom-designed screens. Collaborate closely with clients to present my work and ensure a smooth handoff of the final deliverables.

College of Arts, Media and Design / Creative Co-op

July 2021 – December 2021 · Boston, MA

Worked under the Associate Creative Director in creating creative collateral for Northeastern University's College of Art, Media and Design. This included a print brochure and visual identity for an on-campus exhibition and a design system introducing 2022's newest faculty members.
