Agnolotti Vessels

The Agnolotti Vessels is a collection of ceramic sculptures inspired by the tools used to make 'agnolotti', a type of ravioli from Piemonte, Italy.

The series plays with the similarities between working with clay and pasta dough as acts of care-taking, blending embodied cooking gestures with craftsmanship and digital manufacturing techniques.

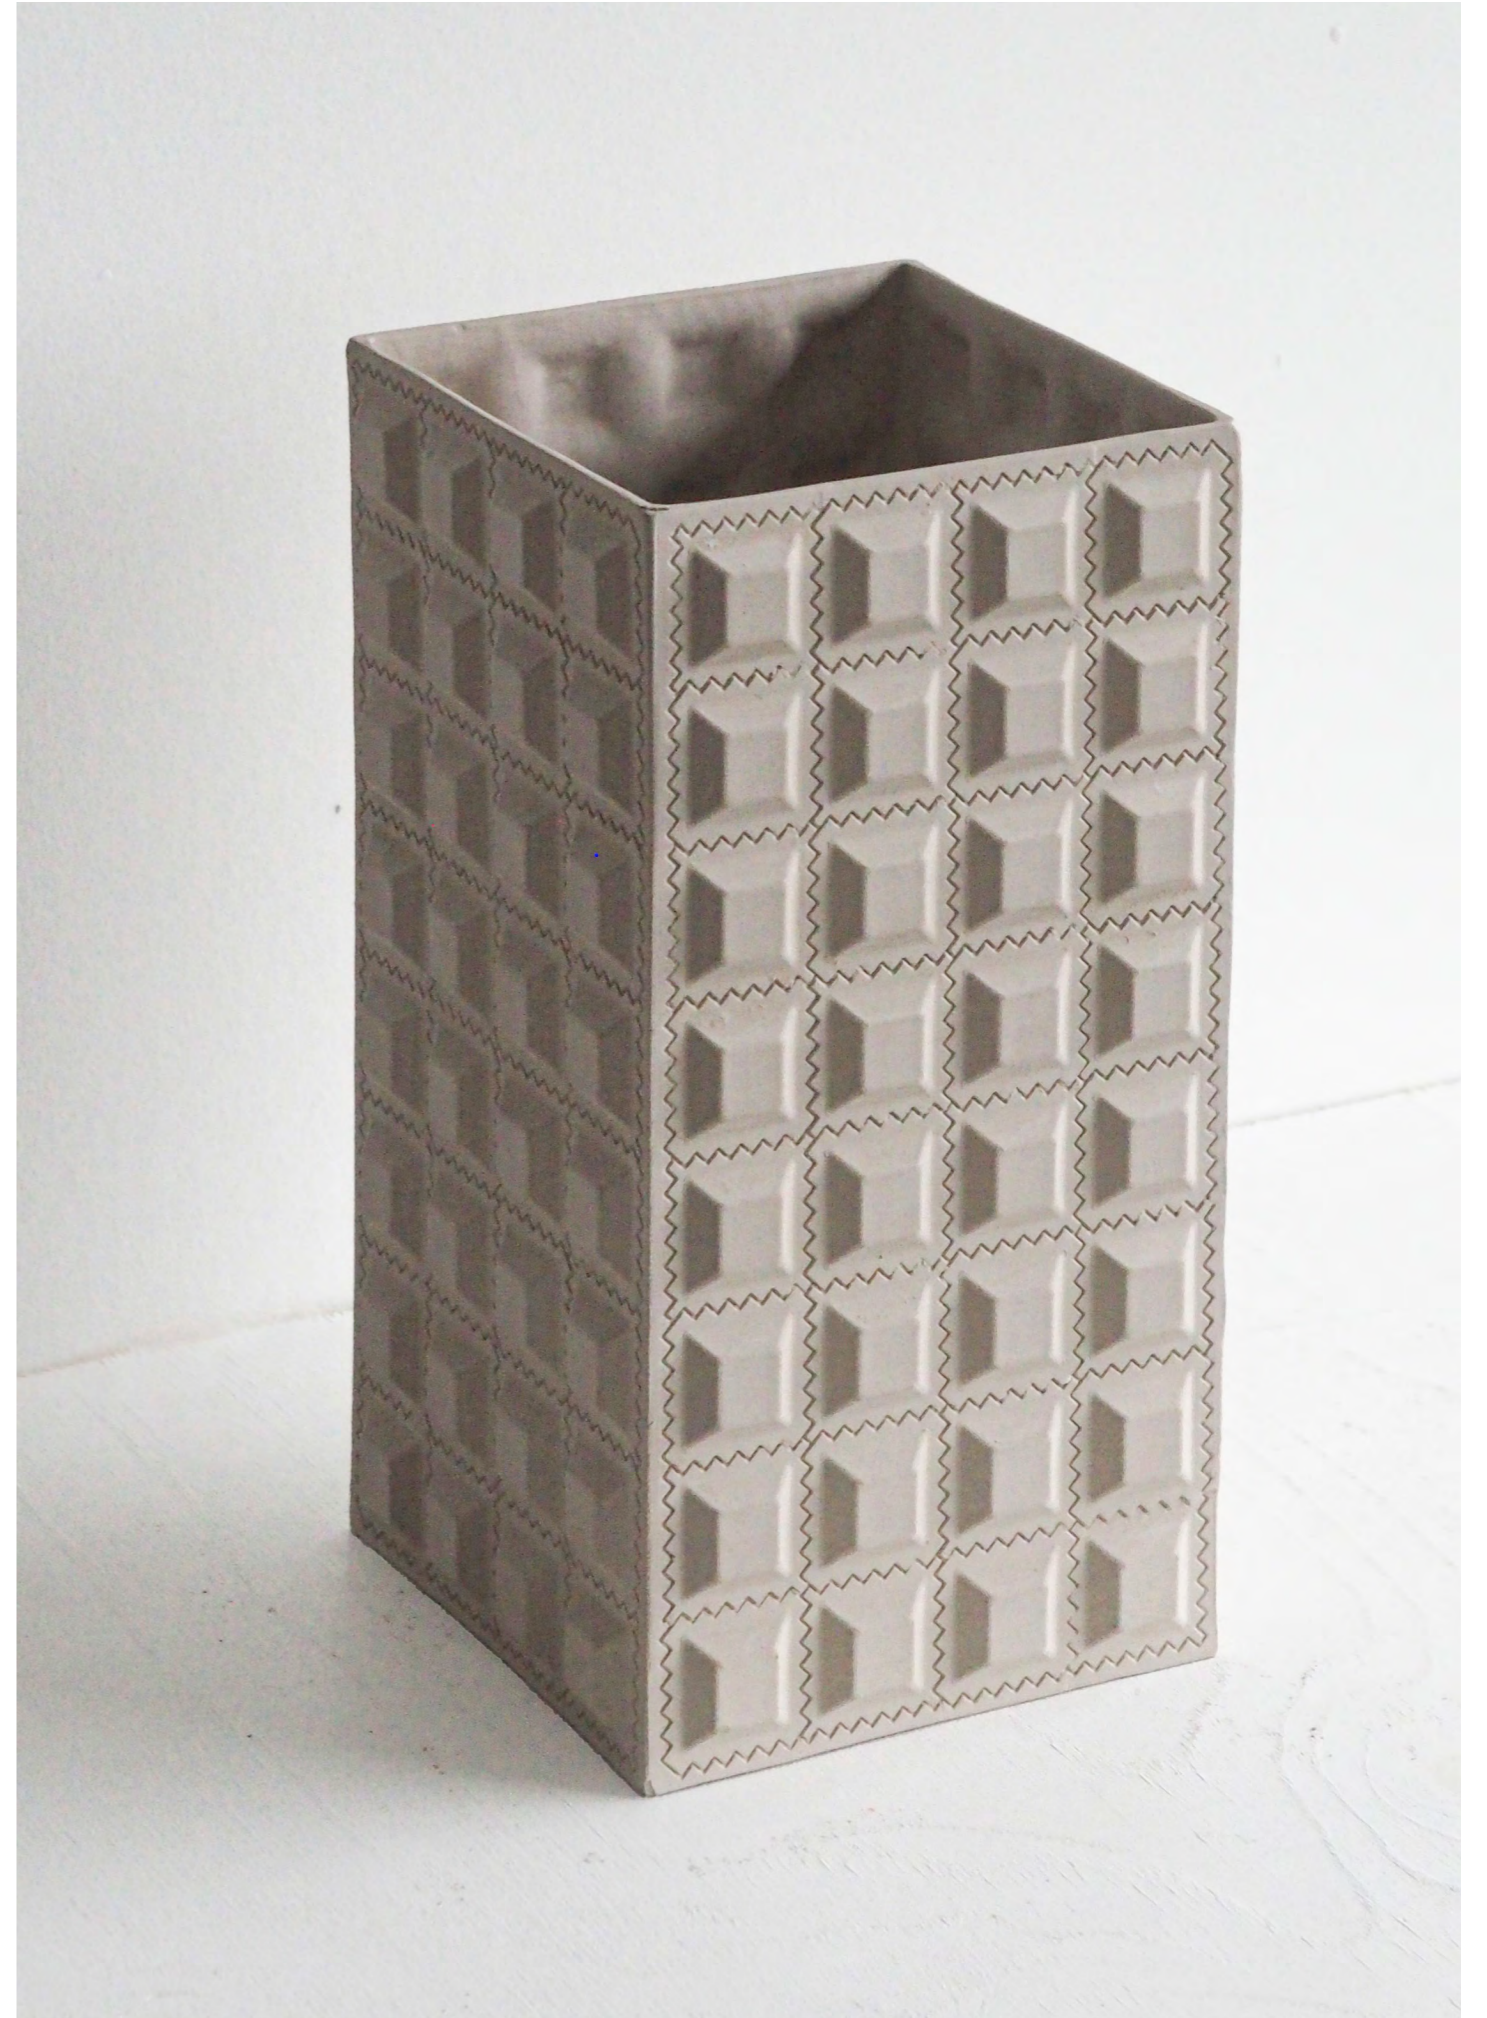

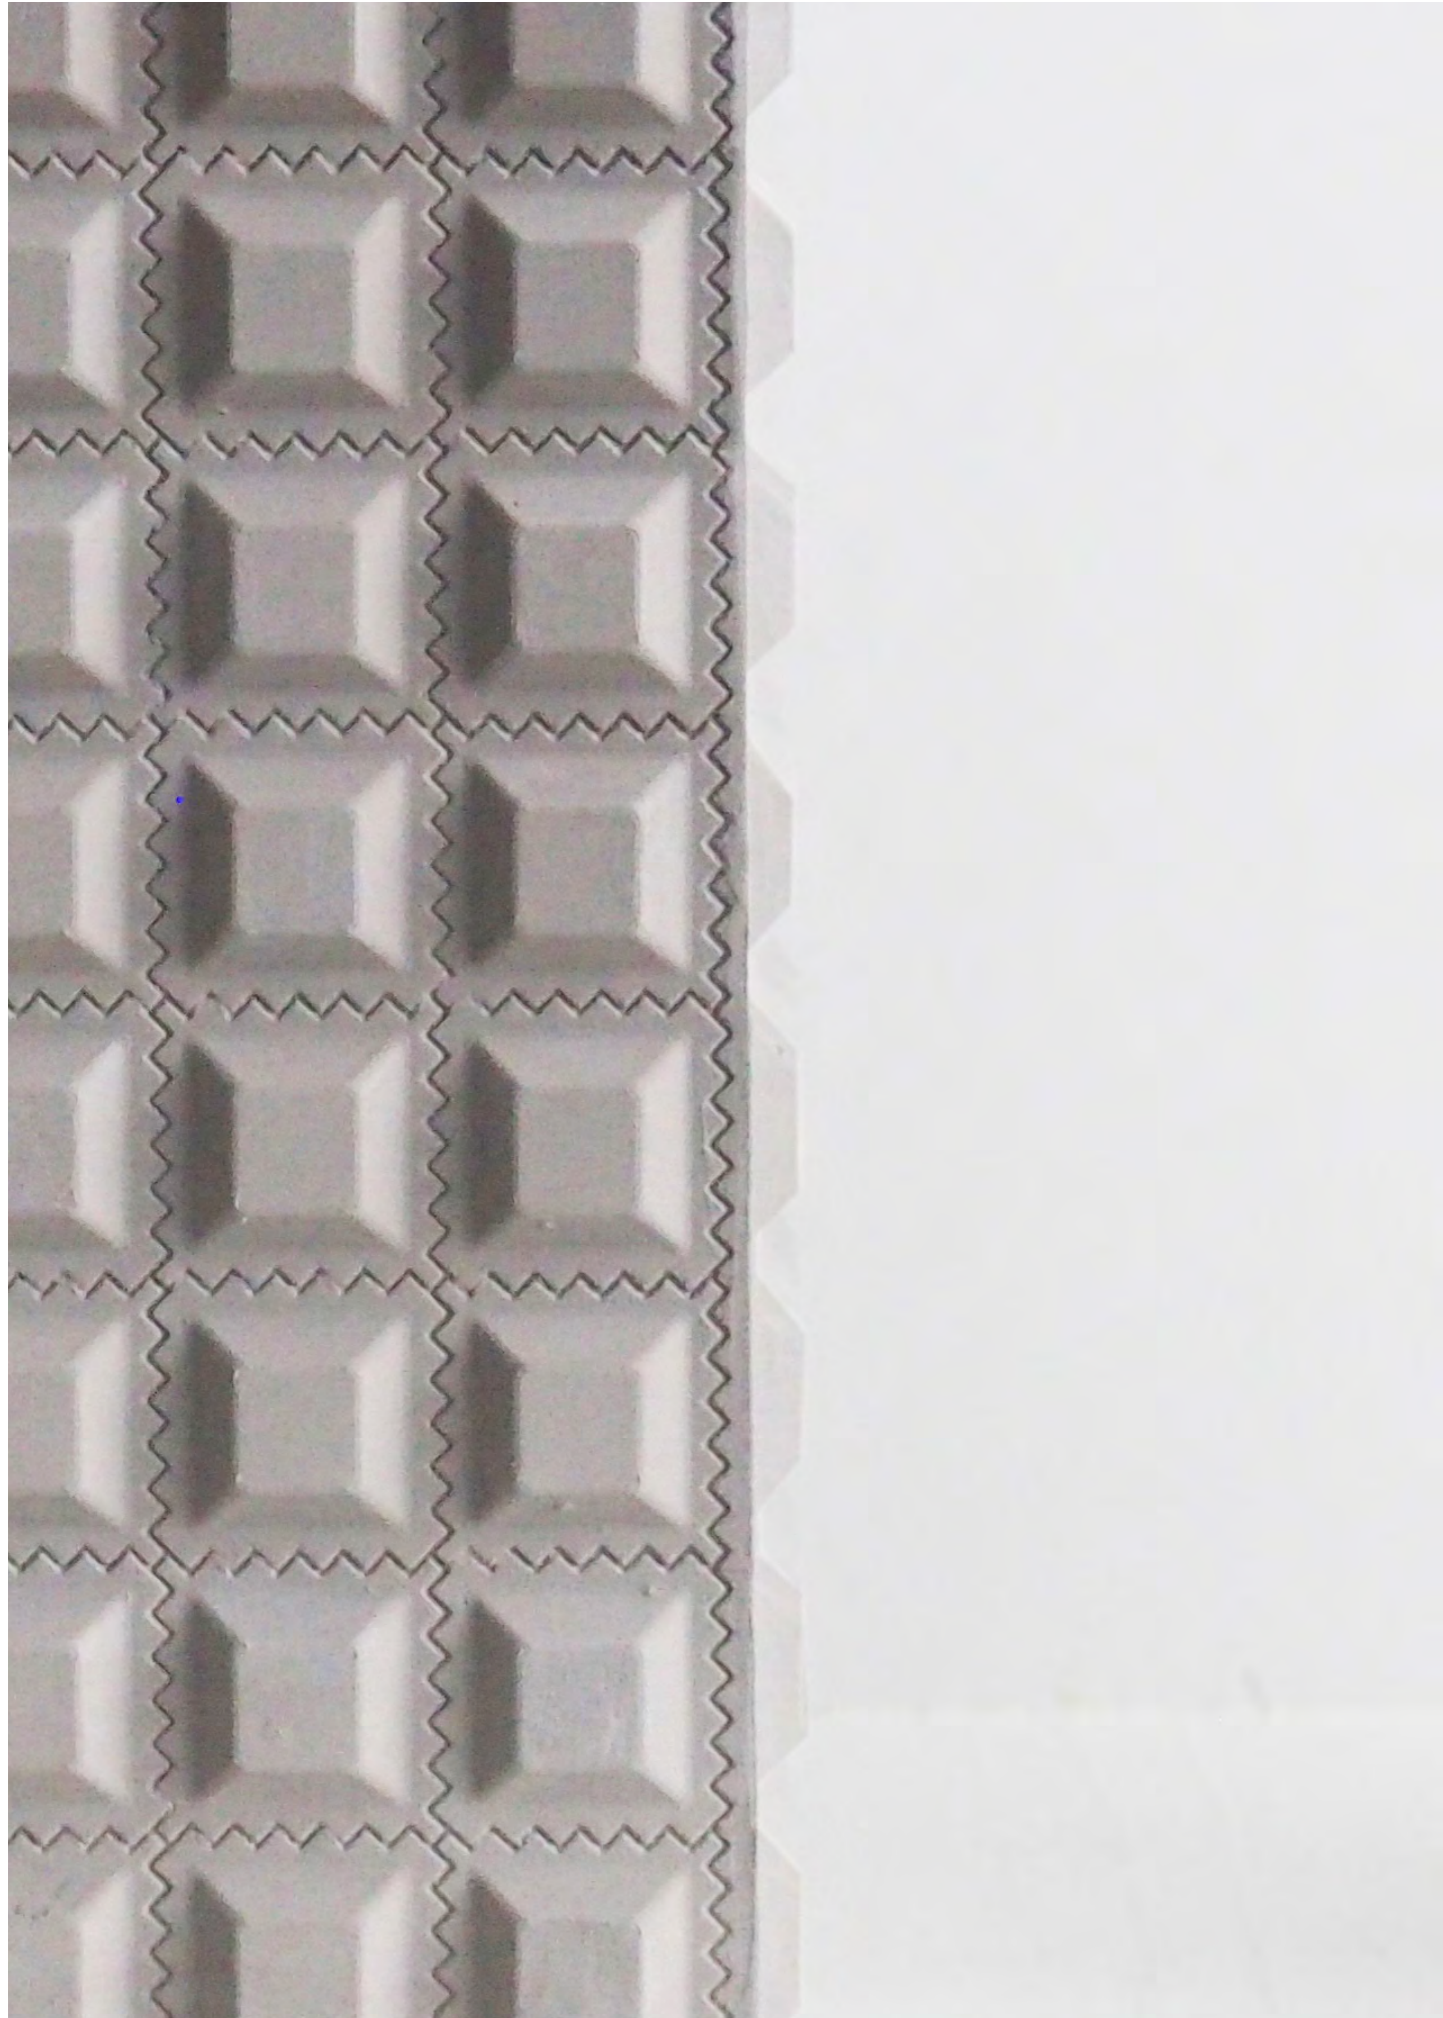

Each vessels is slipcast using a modular 3D printed mold system and a blend of industrial and wild clay, foraged from Italian soil.

The collection celebrates the intersection of craft, tradition and contemporary design while fostering dialogue about materials and their connections to territories and communities.

Different sizes

The Vessels are available in three main sizes, although custom dimensions can be realized. The three sizes, S, M and L, can all be
