From locally harvested wood to contemporary furniture design

Sonian sustains a harmonious ecosystem which closes the gap between wood source and final design through meaningful collaborations with designers and trusted partners. We work exclusively with wood from the Sonian Forest, with full traceability from the tree to the delivered product.

SONIAN

Sonian sustains a harmonious ecosystem which closes the gap between wood source and final design through meaningful collaborations with designers and trusted partners. Our atelier works with hardwood species from the extraordinary Sonian Forest just outside of Brussels, redirecting felled timber otherwise destined for Asia in order to minimise its environmental footprint.

Our goal is to localise the cycle of Sonian wood whilst making sustainably sourced, high-quality material from this unique landscape available to architects, designers, artists and private clients.

LOCAL HARDWOOD

Sonian works exclusively with wood from the Sonian Forest, with full traceability from the tree to the delivered product.

The Sonian Forest is managed by the regional public authorities, certified by FSC and Natura 2000; certain sections of the Sonian Forest are labeled World Heritage by UNESCO.

The trees that are found today in the Sonian Forest have been planted around 250 years ago with the objective to produce wood for future carpentry. Sonian's mission is to make the best use of this unique heritage.

CONTEMPORARY CRAFTSMANSHIP

Our projects are created using traditional craft techniques. Handmade from Belgian beech, our pieces feature signature elements such as visible wooden dowels.

We work with large sections of solid wood, whose beautiful color variations and copper patterns are specific to the Sonian Forest.

Vernaculaire series

The Vernaculaire series is a homage to the forest guards and woodworkers of the past, present and future. Featuring decorative elements inspired by vernacular crafts of the 17th and 18th century, the collection of chairs, tables, benches and stools are simultaneously traditional, contemporary and futuristic.

Handmade in our workshop in Brussels, the Vernaculaire series is made to last more than a lifetime. At some point in the future, they will be used by people who consider us as the past.
