Summary

I'm Nat, a creative professional driven by the intersection of technology, storytelling, and audience experience. My background blends cultural analysis, visual arts, and advertising – a combination that informs my work as a content creator, and emerging mixed reality artist, allows me to translate this knowledge into impactful experiences. My experience in Thailand and my studies in the UK offer a global perspective, enhancing my understanding of visual language and cross-cultural collaboration. My goal is to contribute my skills and vision to a team that pushes the boundaries of technology for communication and artistic expression.
