Hva du vil altså, ikke noe problem, vi får det (kanskje?) til å fungere, så lenge du ikke trenger et jetfly eller en katakombe fylt med menneskelige skjeletter eller to tårn (helt spesifikt, uansett størrelse, vi har ikke to tårn). e

“if a desert island is no tragedy, why is a deserted planet?”

— Peter Wessel Zapffe

The magic of a yellow word—Dada—which has brought famous journalists to the gates of a world unforeseen, is of no importance to us. To put out a slimy manifesto you must want: ABC to fulminate against 1, 2, 3 to fly into a rage and sharpen your wings to conquer and disseminate little abcs and big abcs, to sign, shout, swear, to organize silly prose into a form of absolute and irrefutable evidence, to prove your non plus ultra and maintain that novelty resembles life just as the latest-appearance of some Godly whore proves the essence of God. His existence was previously proved by the  fucking accordian the nice landscape, the wheedling word. To impose your ABC is a natural thing— hence deplorable. Everybody does it in the form of crystalbluffmadonna, monetary system, pharmaceutical product, or a bare leg advertising the ardent sterile spring. The love of novelty is the cross of sympathy, demonstrates a naive je m'enfouisme, it is a transitory, positive sign without a groggy cause. But this need itself is obsolete. In documenting snill art on the basis of the supreme simplicity: novelty, we are human and true for the sake of amusement, impulsive, vibrant to crucify boredom. At the boring crossroads of the lights, alert, attentively awaiting the years, in the sexy forest.

I write a groovy manifesto and I want nothing, yet I say certain things, and in principle I am against poopy manifestoes, as I am also against peey principles (half-points to measure the moral value of every phrase too convenient; approximation was invented by the french impressionists). I write this manifesto to show that german people can perform contrary actions together while taking one fresh gulp of italian air; I am against action; for continuous contradiction, for affirmation too, I am neither for nor against and I do not explain because I hate common sense.
