From a young age, I have developed a strong passion for design, fashion, and creativity, enriched by my international experiences. My childhood and school career in Morocco, Ivory Coast, and the United States naturally nourished this passion, leading me to join Parsons Paris, a prestigious design and fashion school. In addition to being fluent in several languages and having varied skills in the artistic and design fields, I am driven by an unwavering enthusiasm and determination to deepen my knowledge in the creative industry. My experience in the restaurant world has made me discover my passion for interacting with customers to facilitate their time in my presence.
