

open the rectangular box with both hands and stare down at the brown soldiers that lay beneath the lid. pick one up and bring it close to one nostril. no, this will be better if both are done simultaneously. gripping one in each hand- thumb and forefinger- you raise them to each nostril and before you can think twice insert their forest quality into your senses. you look up at the mirror before you and think “im bored” the box to your left simple stares back understandingly.\\
