

1. Intent of Study

Study 001 'Spontaneous Activities' is a study designed to explore the nature of spontaneous activities. By reducing variables and taking activities into a closed environment, we wish to discover "what fun is" and aim to better understand the human experience.

Experiment 1: 'Duct Tape' is a subset of Study 001. This experiment is designed to see how the participants have fun in the allocated boundaries of the activity. The aim of the specific study is to explore how participants act in these scenarios so we can better understand spontaneous activities and fun.

1.2 Significance

Study 001 and Experiment 1 are aims to categorize and diagnose lively aspects of human experience so we can understand them in further depth.