

About the Author

F. Scott Fitzgerald was born in St. Paul, Minnesota in 1896. He joined the United States Army during World War I and published his first novel, This Side of Paradise, in 1920. That same year he married Zelda Sayre and for the next decade the couple lived in New York, Paris, and on the Riviera. Fitzgerald's novels include The Beautiful and Damned, The Great Gatsby, and Tender Is the Night. He died at the age of forty-four in 1940 while working on The Last Tycoon. Fitzgerald's fiction has secured his reputation as one of the most important American writers of the twentieth century.

"The Great Gatsby is in many ways similar to Romeo and Juliet yet it is so much more than a love story."

The Guardian

"It is a novel not to be neglected by those who follow the trend of fiction."

F. Scott Fitzgerald's third book, stands on the supreme achievement of his career. Published in 1925, this quint-essential novel of the Jazz Age has been acclaimed by generations of readers.

This classic work encapsulating the decadence and excess of the 1920s "Jazz Age" follows the unassuming Nick Carraway on his search for the American Dream, which leads him to the doorstep of Jay Gatsby. The story of the mysteriously wealthy Jay Gatsby and his love for the beautiful Daisy Buchanan, of lavish parties on Long Island is an exquisitely crafted tale of America in the 1920s.
